

RHINELANDER MAY GET BIG COLLEGE

Swedish Lutherans May Select This City As Site For Institution

At the Superior conference of the Swedish Luth. church, which opened in Gladstone today, the question of selecting a suitable location for the college of the conference will be brought up for discussion. Rev. Silfversten and August Carlson, who represent the Swedish Luth. church of this city at the conference will make a strong argument in favor of placing the college in Rhinelander. Several cities of the district are desirous of obtaining the institution, but Rhinelander, by means of its central location and other advantages is said to be the most logical site and favored by many prominent members of the conference.

The college, as planned, will accommodate over 200 students and the courses of study will be many and varied. Students of every religious denomination will be admitted. Mr. Carlson stated Wednesday that Rhinelander chances for securing the college are better than those of any other city in the district, which comprises the upper peninsula of Michigan and northeastern Wisconsin. The selection of a location will probably not be definitely decided upon at this time, however.

TIRED OF WEST

Charles Morrill and family, who have been in California for some time past, write friends in Rhinelander that they are becoming tired of that country and will shortly return to their home in this city. "There is no place like Rhinelander or after all" writes Mr. Morrill, "and we will be happy to once more be at home."

When the family went to the Golden Gate state it was their intention to spend the summer there, but evidently the call of this city is too strong for them to resist. They will spend a few days with Tacoma, Wash. relatives before returning here.

CLEAN UP YARDS

Notices have been posted by order of the Board of Health for the removal of rubbish and winter accumulations of waste matter on private and business property in the city, the same to be hauled to the city dumping ground. In cases where there are decayed vegetables or dead animals, same must be buried in the ground and not left exposed. Get busy and have a city beautiful the coming summer.

TWO PASS EXAMS

In the examination for druggist certificates just concluded by the state board of pharmacy in Madison, Rex Reed of this city was one of the successful applicants and is now a full fledged druggist.

Raymond J. Slossen successfully passed the examination for assistant pharmacist and was granted his first certificate.

Out of the eighty-seven applicants to take the examination fifty-seven were granted certificates.

AGAIN HE IS WITH US

"Calico" is back again. After a brief sojourn in the west he alighted from a Soo line freight train Tuesday afternoon, determined to make Rhinelander his stamping grounds for the summer. "Calico" has a reason for his return. Times are quiet in the west and accommodations at the Hotel De Gink, Seattle, are not as good as they used to be.

SOME FANS READY TO SUPPORT TEAM

There is a possibility that Rhinelander may have a city base ball team the coming summer. The article in the New North two weeks ago urging the organization of a team here has attracted the attention of some of the fans to the extent that they have announced their intention of contributing toward the team's support. However, it takes more than a handful of faithful ones to maintain the team; others must fall in line. Why not call a meeting to discuss the matter and obtain the opinion of all the fans as to the feasibility of organizing a club? It is an undisputed fact that a good base ball team is a strong factor in putting a town on the map. May Rhinelander fans get active at once.

REV. SILFVERSTEN ARRIVES IN CITY

Rev. Carl J. Silfversten, the new pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church in this city, was for the last three and one-half years in charge of the Finnish-Swedish Zion Lutheran church in Ironwood. Rev. Silfversten and family will be here Monday. Regrading him the Ironwood Times says:

"During Rev. Silfversten's service with the Zion Lutheran church in this city this congregation has built a fine church, which, with the lot, cost over $14,000, and on which there is at present a debt of only $3,500. In this time the membership of the church has more than doubled, being at present over four hundred. The people of the Zion Lutheran congregation and of the city generally greatly regret Rev. Silfversten's decision to leave the city, but wish him the greatest measure of success in his new field of labor."

ONEIDA HAS 3 IN FARM CONTEST

Seventy-two farmers, representing twenty-one counties, are entered in the state farm management contest which will be held in Madison in June. They have been chosen because of the attention given by them in maintaining the fertility of their farms, in keeping up the health of their live stock and in improving home life, as well as obtaining a net income.

Oneida county will be represented in the contest by William Olson of the town of Pelican, Frank McLaughlin of the town of Crescent, and Geo. Burkhart of the town of Pine Lake.

GUARD AGAINST FIRE

Just at this time when many people are engaged in cleaning yards, Chief Cole of the fire department, warns against burning dried grass and rubbish on windy days. There is great danger of fire through carelessness of this kind. Safety first always.

Dr. John D. Manchester, who spent a week with his sister, Mrs. F. A. Lowell, departed Monday for Oshkosh and other points in the southern part of the state before going to Wausau. His mother, Mrs. Sarah Manchester, accompanied him.

Gary, chairman, J. J. Remo, Rev. Densmore and B. Mack Dresden, decided on the location Wednesday afternoon. Two sites were favored, Shepherd's park and the park on the bank of the Pelican river. Both locations are desirable, but after careful consideration the committee agreed on the latter. The Chautauqua is to be held here under the direction of Wisconsin University and the programs will be given by the highest class musical, literary and dramatic talent in the country.

WINS COW SUIT

In municipal court Tuesday, John Nylund recovered $65 from the North western railway company for the loss of a cow which was killed on the track last November. It was brought out in court that a defective cattle guard was the cause of the animal's death.

DEATH COMES TO MRS. R. MILES

After many months of intense suffering death came to the relief of Mrs. Rosalie Miles, widow of the late Edgar Miles, at St. Mary's hospital, at five o'clock Tuesday morning. It has long been known that Mrs. Miles' illness was of such a nature that recovery was impossible. She too realized this fact, but bore up strongly under the ravages of the disease and bravely faced the inevitable. While her many friends deeply regret her death they find solace in the thought that her sufferings are no more. She was afflicted with cancer. Mrs. Miles was 42 years of age and by her death six children, ranging in ages from 8 to 19 years, are left orphans. One of her sisters, Mrs. Frank Polebitski, resides in this city. The funeral will be held Friday morning from St. Mary's church and the remains will be laid to rest beside the grave of her husband in Forest Home cemetery. A sister, who resides in the west, is expected here for the funeral.

OTIS DISCUSSES FARM MANAGEMENT

Meeting Here Last Wednesday Of Great Value To Oneida Farmers

Last Wednesday at the office of County Representative was held a Farmers' Farm Management meeting. The meeting was particularly valuable in that it will be the means of starting a bookkeeping system on so many farms of the county. The results of the farms surveyed last fall were carefully discussed by Prof. Otis of the University. The strong points of the successful farms were clearly brought out, and all farmers urged to pay more attention to the parts of farming which pay the largest returns. It was found that the farms which were doing best were those keeping live stock, especially dairy cows. It was shown that there is considerable money in pigs and all farmers were urged to keep one or two more brood sows if possible. Sheep showed up well on the farm of Dr. G. D. Packard, and Prof. Otis showed where other farmers might do well by starting a small flock. The farms of the county surveyed last fall were considered in a farm management contest and in the afternoon Prof. Otis announced that Frank McLaughlin had been awarded first place as an efficient farmer, in different ways helped us in the Geo. Burkhart, second, and Wm. Olson third. These three men with their wives are invited to attend a large state meeting to be held at Fort Atkinson next June where prizes for the state contest will be awarded and a valuable program carried out. Twenty copies of "Farm Accounts Simplified" were given to farmers by business men of Rhinelander. With these books the farmers can keep close account of their farm dealings and next year we will have an opportunity to know how citizens on our farms compare with those of other counties. The results for the past year show us to be ahead of the average farmer of northern Wisconsin, and also show us to be doing as well or better than many southern Wisconsin farmers who are farming high price lands. This season promises to be even better, and at the close of the year, we will have some figures which will surprise people who have any doubts as to what Oneida county can do along lines of farming.

PETER DOYLE, OLD RESIDENT, GONE

Death Comes Monday Evening After An Illness Of Several Months

Death has this week removed another old and well known citizen of Rhinelander. Peter Doyle, one of the city's early residents, succumbed at nine o'clock Monday evening at his home on the south side after a several months illness. Mr. Doyle began to first complain early last fall and as his condition showed no improvement he consulted eminent specialists, but was given no relief. During the latter part of the winter he was obliged to take to his bed and had since failed rapidly. Stomach trouble was the nature of his illness.

Peter Doyle was 52 years of age and a native of Portage county, Wis. His early life was spent on a farm and he came to Rhinelander a quarter century ago. For over eight years he was in charge of the Oneida county poor farm and while in that position gained a wide acquaintance throughout this section. He managed the farm in an efficient manner and was ably assisted by Mrs. Doyle. His ever genial disposition and kindly word for all won him scores of friends.

Mr. Doyle is survived by a wife and four children. He also leaves three brothers, Thomas of this city, Lawrence of Wausau and Michael of North Dakota; and six sisters, Mrs. Patrick Murphy of Duluth, Mrs. Thos. Carney of Winton, Minn., Mrs. Wm. Wood of Grant's Pass, Ore., Mrs. Wm. Gwald of Middleton, Wis., Miss Rennie Doyle of Duluth and Mrs. Will Dunn of this city.

Mr. Doyle was a member of A. O. H. and Mystic Worker lodges. The funeral was held from St. Mary's church Thursday morning. Requiem mass was said, three priests officiating. Rev. Fr. Wuchter, Rev. Fr. Fagan of St. Mary's church and Rev. Fr. Bertarm of Merrill. The Bernians attended the services in a body and escorted the remains to St. Mary's cemetery. Nearly all of the above mentioned relatives were present at the funeral. To the bereaved family of deceased deepest sympathy is extended.

 J. B. Rotnour's three bear cubs are now snugly housed in a comfortable den arranged by Mr. Rotnour back of the Alhambra. The cubs are becoming a little too "playful" to be kept in the house and besides their new quarters allow them more freedom with plenty of outside air. Many people, including several women, daily visit the little animals and take great delight in their funny antics.

Airright Rubber Cork.
 A stopper for bottles that is especially valuable for travelers consists of a solid rubber cork that goes down into the neck of the bottle, and a circular collar of soft rubber rising from the top of the cork. When the cork is driven home this collar is turned down over and outside the neck, which it makes water-tight and airtight. The solid cork and the flexible collar are all in one piece.

Just exactly how it works

YOU spend your money with the local merchant.

He prospers and expands—he builds a bigger store and employs more people.

The merchant is more generous with his advertising in the local paper. The newspaper prospers—it expands.

Nothing helps a town more than a good, prosperous newspaper.

Your town grows. The community is prosperous. Surrounding farm lands increase in value. All because your dollar stayed at home where it belongs.

And that's not all!

The dollar you spend in your home town gets you more than the dollar you spend in the big cities.

The average hat sold in the cities for $3 is twenty per cent less value than the Gordon for which you pay $3 at home. The Gordon Gloves—the Gordon Cap you buy at home are better value than their price would buy in the city. The same with other well known merchandise.

The city dealer must get larger profits, and he does.

Buy at home, but be sure to buy known merchandise.

EVENTS OF WEEK IN NEARBY TOWNS

Washburn—
One of the most horrible accidents that has ever occurred in the city took place when Stella, the seven-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Guski of 1st avenue east and 6th street was burned so badly that she died. The child was playing near a fire that had been made to burn up rubbish when her dress caught the flames. She was screaming down the street and fell exhausted. Great pieces of skin and flesh fell from her body and for hours she suffered intense agony.

North Grandon—
In circuit court, Wm. Lord and Frank Lynaugh, local saloon keepers, plead guilty to the charge of selling liquor on Sunday, and each received a fine of $5.00 and costs, amounting to $16.07 for Lord and $21.25 for Lynaugh. For some unknown reason Roe asked for and received a continuance until the next term of circuit court. After July 1, this village will "go dry," the voters so deciding at the election April 6.

Grandon—
John Pego, the Indian hunter and trapper of Armstrong Creek, brought four wolves, a mother and three pups, to the county clerk, Thursday, for the bounty, receiving in lieu of the scalps, $76.00. Last year Pego got a litter of pups. Last spring he found the wolf's den and captured her litter, but was unable to trap the mother. This spring he was more successful and caught the old and young.

Lady Smith—
The new steel bridge recently completed across the Flambeau river four miles from the village of Tony, at a cost of over $10,000 was completely wrecked when the ice went out and must be entirely rebuilt. As it had not been accepted by the town and county, the loss will fall upon the contractor.

Wittenberg—
The Wheeler-Timlin Lumber Co. of Wausau have plans made for the erection of a saw mill in this village before the end of the coming summer. The new plant will occupy the site formerly used by the Gooding-Mylres Lumber Co., whose mill was destroyed by fire. The new institution will mean considerable to the framers around here who have logs to sell in the winter.

Tomahawk—
Three Tomahawk merchants were brought before Judge Bell in municipal court yesterday charged with selling tobacco and cigarettes to Herbert Smith, the boy who was recently arrested, charged with stealing a bicycle. Two of the merchants plead guilty to the charge and were fined $5.00 and costs.

A WARNING TO MANY Some Interesting Facts About Kidney Troubles.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1913, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper, enclose ten cents and they will gladly forward it to you by Parcel Post.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—40c. and $1.00.

IN HONOR OF LINCOLN
Flags on all government buildings in the United States were at half mast last Thursday in honor of the memory of President Lincoln, whose death occurred on April 15, fifty years ago. It was fifty years ago on the evening of April 14, that Wilkes Booth, an actor, shot Mr. Lincoln while the latter was attending a theater in Washington, D. C., and on the day following one of the greatest men who ever ruled the destinies of this nation breathed his last.

ODANAH INDIANS PROGRESSIVE
The Indians of the Odanah reservation have agreed to give a telephone, electric light and power franchise to the Odanah Electric company headed by D. V. Parkinson, formerly manager of an Ashland telephone exchange. A phone system is to be put in at once with rural lines and a lighting plant will be put in soon after.

DISCUSS WAR THEN FIGHT
There was a free for all combat in the vicinity of the Soo depot Sunday afternoon in which two or three of the belligerents escaped with minor bruises. Heated discussions over the war caused the battle in which bricks formed a prominent part, it is said. There were no arrests.

KEEP OFF SIDEWALKS
Chief of Police Straub issued orders Wednesday against roller skating and bicycle riding on the sidewalks of the city. Any one violating these orders will be promptly placed under arrest.

Old Pension Plan.
They had a roundabout way of bestowing military pensions in the old days. Witness this official communication from the British war office in the reign of Queen Anne. Her majesty, it runs, has been pleased to grant Fitton Minshull, a child, a commission as ensign in consequence of the loss of his father, who died in the service. And Fitton was at the same time granted furlough until further order, his army pay being sent regularly to his mother.

Water Power Wasted.
The famous Victoria falls of the Zambesi river, in Rhodesia, it is estimated, could be made to yield 25,000,000 horsepower, or just about the same amount as all of Europe's water courses.

Opening Day at Panama-Pacific Exposition Broke All Exposition Attendance Records

ALL attendance records for expositions were broken at the opening of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco on Feb. 20. Vast crowds thronged the grounds when President Wilson pressed the button in Washington, and each day since the attendance has been enormous. The huge buildings and beautiful thoroughfares hummed with activity and have continued to do so.

The Exposition has already demonstrated at this early date that it will be a great success in every way.

The Out of Doors Man

The fellow with the big tough muscles, who can chop trees all day and lift the butt end of a hard log, is a hearty liver in everything he tackles. He likes his tobacco rich, mellow and full of natural flavor, for a cool, fragrant pipe-smoke. He uses because it's got the right stuff in it. Satisfaction—for a sturdy man—can come from real tobacco only. Insipid mixtures don't appeal to a man with real tobacco hunger.

STANDARD

Long Cut Tobacco

STANDARD is pure Kentucky leaf, with the "body" for a real smoke, yet rich and pleasing. It takes three to five years to age the tobacco in STANDARD; the process can't be hurried. That's the reason STANDARD is so ripe and mellow.

STANDARD will "make good" the very first time you smoke it. But if you want to prove that STANDARD satisfaction isn't a "flash in the pan" give STANDARD a week's trial. Then you'll know that STANDARD always satisfies, and you'll always keep on using it.

Physically and Mentally Worn Out—Tells How Nervous and Crying Spells Were Ended by Vinol.

Monmouth, Ill.—"I was weak, worn-out and nervous. I had no appetite and was getting so thin and discouraged, one day I just broke down and cried when a friend came in and asked me what was the matter. I told of my condition and how nothing I took seemed to do me any good. Vinol was suggested. I got a bottle and before it was half gone I could eat and sleep well. I continued its use and now my friends say I look ten years younger, and I am well, healthy and strong. I wish I could induce every tired-out, worn-out, nervous woman to take Vinol."—Mrs. HARRIET GALE, Monmouth, Ill.

There are many over-worked, tired-out, careworn, nervous women in this vicinity who need the strengthening, tissue building, and vitalizing effects of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, and so sure are we that it will build them up and make them strong that we offer to return their money if it fails to benefit.

Vinol is a delicious preparation of the extract of cod liver oil and peptonate of iron and contains no oil.

CONSUMPTION TAKES 350 PEOPLE DAILY

Over 350 people succumb to consumption every day in the United States. Science proves that the germs which thrive when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, confined duties or when general weakness exists. The best physicians point out that during changing seasons the blood should be made rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals. The cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood; it particularly strengthens the lungs and throat, while it upholds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption. If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known. It is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug. Avoid substitutes. —Scott & Downe, Bloomfield, N. J.

Leo M. Frank, under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta factory girl, lost another step in his fight for life in the United States supreme court. Public sympathy is with Frank and it is generally hoped that his sentence will at least be commuted to life imprisonment.

Every merchant and business man expects the trade of the people of his community. It is his right to expect it, and he should have it out not without some solicitation or effort. The business man who neglects to tell the people about his business offerings through the medium of the local paper, is neglecting one of his greatest opportunities to hold and get new trade. In this day, business must be sought; the patron must be met half way and a little more.

STATE FORESTER NEAR FIST FIGHT

Moran And Ellington Have Clash Wednesday With Mr. Griffith

A clash in the assembly lobby on Wednesday between State Forester E. M. Griffith and Assemblyman El Ellington and Moran threatened for a time to develop into a roughhouse says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Mr. Griffith tried to convince the north county assemblymen that he ought to be granted $30,000 for forestry work. This aroused Mr. Ellington and he sailed into the forester in a rough fashion telling him it was an insult for him to attempt to coerce members of the legislature, as the assemblyman charged he had done.

"You said," cried Mr. Ellington, "that if anyone dared to oppose that bill you could advertise him all over the state. I hope you will do so and as a favor to me put my name at the top of the list."

Then Assemblyman Moran took up the argument and charged Mr. Griffith with being the entire forestry commission. "The others are only rubber stamps," he said. "All they know is what you tell them."

Mr. Moran asserted hotly that there was no need for any appropriation of $30,000 such as Mr. Griffith was trying to get through. "You spent but $1,000 in the work of protection in former years why is not $5,000 enough now?"

Mr. Griffith said that this would be a mere bagatelle. "But why," insisted Moran. The only answer Griffith could make was that it might be a dry season and the money would be needed.

Assemblyman Kubasta tried the role of peacemaker and led Mr. Griffith off down the lobby.

This little incident served to show in strong light the feeling that exists in northern Wisconsin against the forestry department. The day of big appropriations to this department has gone by. This session it will receive no more than will actually be needed to preserve the state against loss.

Mr. Griffith in his attempt to pull off another big appropriation is having the assistance of some of the state officials. They in turn have tried to interest Gov. Philipp in the project, but the governor has refused to interfere.

HAS APPROVAL OF ALL

NO MISTAKE POSSIBLE WHEN A SPONGE CAKE IS PROVIDED.

Method of Preparation Carefully Given by an Expert Who Knows Just How It Should Be Put Together for Best Results.

One of the finest little things for the expert housewife to know is how to take certain portions of flour, eggs and sugar and whip them swiftly into the shape of sponge cake. Is there any man, woman or child of right mind who does not like a properly baked "sponge cake"? Echo answers none. An old hand furnished the Star with the necessary method in careful detail. Here it is:

The proper requisites for cake baking are some deep, round-bottomed bowls for mixing, one to be large enough to hold entire mixture when done; a regulation graded one-half pint measuring cup, standard tea and tablespoon, a good perforated mixing spoon, flat egg whip and revolving egg beater.

The correct molds for cake are so constructed that they require no greasing; a German "spring form" or those with removable slides where a knife can be slipped in to cut out the cake are the best; if round molds are used select those with a tube in center; they hold up the delicate mixture while raising and cut more evenly.

The object of ungreased molds is twofold. It is decidedly cleaner, and cake baked that way is more delicate. As the batter rises it clings to sides and tube and stays there until cut out, while a greased mold lets cake slide down and sag even during the baking. The egg cakes should be inverted with the mold as soon as taken from the oven and allowed to hang while cooling; this stretches the cake and increases it materially in size. If mold has no projections for that purpose set rim on three cups or rest center tube on a Mason jar; this will raise it from level of table and let air circulate freely around cake while cooling.

When whipping whites for cakes always use a flat egg whip and use it with long even stroke; this incloses air and makes cake light; on the other hand, for icings or meringue a revolving egg beater should be used, as a close-grained consistency is desired for that purpose. When told to fold in sugar or flour use a flat whip or spoon and combine material with a dipping motion, never beat, whip or stir at that stage, or cake will be tough. The care of these light cakes while baking can be summed up as follows: The first ten to twenty minutes the heat should be moderate, the cake must rise slowly to top of pan without browning, then heat can be increased. At all times watch carefully. As soon as oven gets too hot open oven door and let hot air escape; this will change the temperature at once.

Do not be afraid that cold air may chill cake. As the hot air escapes it will keep the cold from penetrating. A few asbestos sheets are useful to place above or below cake if it browns too fast. To ascertain when cakes are done press top with finger tips, if it rebounds without making a hissing sound and the cake has shrunk slightly, it is done. Take from oven, carefully invert the mold, being careful that no draft can strike it, and let stand until cold. When cake has been cut from mold place inverted on flat plate, rub off the little loose furry particles that may be on sides and top, then cake is ready for icing.

As a last caution to the inexperienced cook let me say never substitute other material for that called for in these recipes; especially does this apply to the flour. Pastry flour is so superior to the "spring wheat" for all cakes and pastry that the small difference in price should not be considered. Granulated sugar must be fine grained, and be sure to note the difference in "powder and confectioner's sugar"—the former is extremely fine grained and used in baking, while the latter is smooth like starch and is best for icing, etc.—Washington Star.

Watch the Garbage Pail.

A careful survey of this receptacle indicates the part of the kitchen supply that is lost as refuse or as waste. Poor cooking, unwarranted purchases and unwise planning contribute to this extravagance. The unnecessary waste should be eliminated by the use of good cook book and wiser planning as to the amounts needed and individual tastes.

Refrigerator Hint.

To avoid buying ice in winter, the refrigerator should be kept chilled by this plan: Set a pail of water outside to become ice cold. Put the pail in the ice compartment of the refrigerator. In case the water should freeze solid, place a small stick in it. The ice will crack and rise up around the stick instead of bursting the vessel.

For Cleaning Forks.

A little wooden-tined fork, each time bound with cloth, is used to clean forks. The tines of the wooden fork are run between those of the forks to be cleaned, and they remove every speck of soil.

Soda for White Furniture.

White furniture is best cleaned by being wiped with a soft cloth moistened in a solution of baking soda—a teaspoonful of soda to a pint of warm water—and rubbed with a dry cloth afterward.

HANDLING THE CASH

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

They had been married six months—George Curless and Kitty Cline. All had gone well, when one afternoon Kitty's Aunt Prue came visiting. She hadn't seen the young wife since her marriage and, after drawing a long breath and getting a good toe hold, she said: "And now I want to ask about George."

"Is he a kind and loving husband?" "Why, Aunt Prue, George is just the best man in this world!" was the enthusiastic reply.

"How much salary does he get?" "Twenty-five per week."

"And how much do you save per week?"

"Save? Why, we haven't saved anything as yet."

"Then it's wuss than I thought far—far wuss. Who handles the money?" "Why, George does, of course."

"That's it—that's it! He handles the money and does what he pleases with it. It is no wonder."

"But doesn't the husband always save the money?"

"He does where the wife is an idiot. Lord alive, child, any wife is five times as capable of handling the house money as the husband. We never should have been worth a hundred dollars. If I hadn't taken the money matter into my own hands."

When the subject was changed the wife found herself thinking it would be very nice to handle the money, but was almost sure the husband would not consent, but he came home with a surprise for her. It happened he had heard that Aunt Prue was at the house that afternoon, and knowing her ideas on finance he suspected, "Kitty, I've been thinking things over today."

"What things?"

"Don't you think you could make my salary go further than I do?"

"Yes, I do, but—"

"Then I'll turn it over to you for the next three months."

"You are so good, George."

"You can run the house and everything."

"Why, I surely thought you would object."

"But you see I don't. I have saved $50 in the last six months, though I was keeping it secret. I guess, however, you can beat my record and not try very hard."

"I shall surprise you, dearest." She surprised him all right. As there were only two of them, he had been buying porterhouse steak. For dinner they now had a round, and seeing that she was a tenderfoot the butcher had charged her the same price. The grocer weighed her sugar and butter short, and there was a skimping of potatoes. In two weeks, however, the wife had managed to save $14, and then Aunt Prue came again.

"You don't want to put your money in the bank," said the old lady. "You send for one of those second-hand sewing machines that are advertised as good as new. You can surely save thirty-five dollars."

"I will."

"A man called at the house yesterday with stock in a silver mine to sell. It is a stock to be sold only to ministers and widows, but after some coaxing, and after promising never to tell, he let me have fifty dollars' worth of stock for $15. It will pay dividends of 50 per cent."

"But I'll buy the stock for you now, and in two weeks you can pay me for it. Never miss a good thing if you can help it. I would not say anything to George about it if I were you."

During the last month of the three the husband looked so starved and anxious that the wife expected to hear him say any day that he must turn to barks and roots to get enough to fill up on, but he carried the thing through like a patriot.

"Well, the twelve weeks are up," said the husband one evening.

"And I think I can show you that I am a bit of a financier," was the proud reply.

The sewing machine had been brought over that afternoon, and the husband was led into its presence.

"How much?"

"Only fifteen dollars."

"I know of three second-hand machines here in town that you can buy at five dollars each, but never mind that."

"Here is some silver stock that Aunt Prue bought for me."

"Then she ought to give you your money back, for that swindle was exposed years ago."

"Oh, George, have I been swindled?"

"Most surely, but what else?"

"I bought two seashore lots."

"I heard you had and looked them up. They are on the edge of a big New Jersey swamp."

"And—"

"Did you buy half of Lake Erie for a melon patch?"

"Not quite. I only bought some stock in a Peruvian gold mine."

"I see. Now we will figure up what you have saved in your twelve weeks."

"Don't, George—don't!" she sobbed.

"But, you see—"

"If you won't, you may call Aunt Prue an idiot."

"As I was going to say—"

"And you may handle the house money to the last day of your life!"

And George grinned and kissed her, and Aunt Prue hasn't been in the house since.

THE WINNER

By AUGUSTUS G. SHERWIN.

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Well, boys," spoke Stephen Dale in a brisk hearty way, "here we all are and we will now proceed to the division of the spoils!"

His three elder sons, Henry, Claud and Montgomery, looked impressed and eager. His youngest, Jack, smiled in half pleased interest.

The four sons sat at a table facing their father, who had at his elbow a pile of documents and a check book.

"I have brought you all together," he now announced, "to tell you that, having all of you reached man's estate, it is time that you should assume some personal independence and responsibility. I'm not going to leave my estate so that there will be a family squabble over it. I'm going to divide it up. Here. Now. Fairly."

Claud, the lawyer, who had changed his name to Claudius, because he fancied it sounded more classical, picked up his ears and looked serious.

"I'll tell you at the start," pursued the indulgent father, "that whoever takes Idlewild here, the family home, will be the wise fellow in the end. You can have your choice, Claud, being the eldest—the home or $25,000 cash."

"I'll!" observed Claudius gravely, "with a vast political future ahead of me, the ready cash will best help me reach the destined goal of my ambition."

"Very good," nodded Mr. Dale. "And you, Monty?"

"I," replied Montgomery with short and snappy precision "expect to receive a general's commission in time. The money will help me get it."

"And you, Hank?"

"I am devoted to club life, in debt and need a fixed cash income, my good father," he said, "so, fancy the ready money would suit me best."

"Of course I'll take the old home, if I'm lucky enough to deserve it," spoke bluff honest Jack.

Stephen Dale darted a grateful, affectionate glance at his youngest and favorite son. He drew out the three checks and passed them around.

"One word more," he spoke, as their recipients arose to get them cashed as quickly as possible. "There's something else. See here, boys, my experience teaches me that there's nothing so steadies a young man as getting married. Now then, to the first one of you who takes a wife I will give $10,000, to the second $5,000, to the third, $3,000 and to the last, $1,000. By the way," he added, a suggestive twinkle in his merry eye, "I'm thinking you won't have to look far to find the prettiest heiress in the country right nigh to hand."

Each one of the three knew whom he meant—Miss Della Bliss, not a mile away. It was said she was to have half a million in her own right. It was strange, but each one of the trio departed determined to call upon the young lady in question and see how the land lay.

Two mornings later Claud met Henry and Monty. He informed them that he had called upon Miss Bliss the evening previous. Her father had been greatly interested in his long talk about the law.

Then Monty in undress military uniform went to see the heiress.

Henry's turn followed. He fancied he was irresistible and languidly informed his brothers that he believed he would take the girl on a chance.

Miss Bliss had been dreadfully embarrassed at being taken by storm by three impetuous suitors. Then she had told them in her pretty, artless way that she was already engaged.

About three o'clock one afternoon Jack, plain, simple, unostentatious Jack to the end of the chapter, directing some men in parking a roadway running through the estate, looking over in the direction of the Bliss home had noted a blue ribbon fluttering from one of its windows. He quietly left the direction of the workmen to one of their number. In a few minutes Jack had gained the hedge separating the two estates.

Soon Della appeared. Certainly Jack was her friend, that she should signal him and now make a confidant of him, and pour into the willing ears the story of her persecution by three great overgrown boys!

"And such nice brothers of yours they are," she told Jack.

"What a terrible escape they have had in evading the wiles of a young lady who is not duly awed by their grandeur and importance," smiled Jack.

It was the next morning that the three city brothers were ready to depart. They were just completing breakfast when Jack made the remark:

"Father, if you don't mind, I think I will run up to the city with the boys."

"Surely, son," responded Mr. Dale. "You will need some money, I suppose?"

"No, I have enough for the one purchase I intend to make," assured Jack. "It's a ring, father," and he darted a teasing glance at the lawyer, the soldier and the top—"a ring for Miss Bliss. You see we have been engaged for the last six months."

"Ha! ha! ha!" chuckled old Stephen Dale, slapping his knee with vim as the trio arose from the table and sneaked away, looking bored and embarrassed. "It seems to me, son Jack, that you've got the best of it all around!"

HIS FOLLY

By GRACE KERRIGAN.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Dan going to get married!" repeated Mrs. Archer in response to an inquisitive neighbor. "No, indeed, Mrs. Blake! Dan's never kept company with a girl in his life—not but what I want him to get married if he can find the right girl; but certainly I would, if anyone did!"

"Of course you would," agreed Mrs. Blake, "but it seems so queer for him to be building a bungalow up there on his lot, spending every spare minute of his time on it, and doing every stitch of work himself—unless he was going to live in it. Perhaps he will rent it," with happy inspiration.

Mrs. Archer shook her head. "He says not. If you'll promise not to breathe a word, Mrs. Blake—"

"Of course I won't!" interrupted Mrs. Blake excitedly.

"Well—he says he's going to have the home ready, and when the right girl comes along, then he'll get married! It's a foolish thing to do, but Dan is a good boy, and if he enjoys building a nest before he finds a mate, why, I can't complain!" Mrs. Archer laughed comfortably.

"No—indeed!" replied Mrs. Blake, and then hastening her departure she transmitted far and wide the intelligence of Dan Archer's purpose in building the little brown bungalow on the hill west of his father's house.

And before another day had dawned the good gossips of Crystal Brook were chuckling over Dan Archer's "folly," as they called his undertaking.

So Archer's Folly became rather a joke in the village, but Dan Archer knew nothing of it. Few would have dared to hint the words to the steady-eyed young giant who went about his nest building so earnestly without a thought as to the absurdity of his endeavor.

There came a night when the wind howled around the bungalow and the snow beat against the walls until they were covered with a thick white mantle.

There was a fireplace in Dan's study and a great pile of hickory logs as well as a comfortable couch, so on certain nights when he had been studying closely Dan would decide to sleep there.

On this stormy night Dan turned away from the window and replenished the fire. Then he prepared for bed leaving a lighted lantern in the window of the living room.

"It's a bad night outside," he murmured.

While the little village slept under the drifting mantle of snow, a horse and sleigh moved slowly through the road that led from the next village. Occasionally the horse stopped and breathed heavily and once it almost fell in its tracks.

"Uncle Nathan, I'm afraid that Sorrel can't go much farther," quavered a girl's sweet voice.

"Are you very near the doctor's, Folly?" The old man's voice sounded muffled from his thick wrappings of woolen comforter.

"I'm afraid I don't know!" and this time the girl's voice held a note of despair. "We are off the main road and I can't see a thing—ah, there is a light! Let us turn toward it—there must be a house. If we can reach it, perhaps we can send for a doctor from there."

The wind tore her words into fragments, but the old man understood, so he crouched down among the fur robes while Folly urged the horse to greater efforts. At last Sorrel tottered up a steep hill and finally dropped exhausted between the shafts with the guiding light only a few feet distant.

"It's a house on a hill," explained Felicia, as she helped her uncle from the sleigh.

The Dainties lived in the adjoining village of Upton Center and the only physician in the village had been called away on an urgent case, so that when Uncle Nathan cut himself with an ax Felicia could only blind up the wound as best she might and then, bundling the old man into a sleigh, strive to reach Crystal Brook, three miles away.

By daylight Uncle Nathan had been made very comfortable, and the doctor having taken his departure Mrs. Archer took the weary girl down to the farmhouse and tucked her into bed, while Dan, after stabling Sorrel, went back to keep vigil by the injured man.

Dan came down

YOUR attention is respectfully called, to an important point not generally known, that a laxative should have a tonic element to successfully meet constipation.

Mr. John B. Capers, of 110 Pecan St., Fort Worth, Texas, had a significant experience in this particular. He was afflicted with a severe case of constipation and bowel trouble. He spent a good deal of money in trying to find a remedy. To his astonishment, Perma very quickly relieved him of his bad symptoms. This happened a number of years ago. Since then, Mr. Capers states that he has had similar attacks of trouble, the prominent symptom of which is constipation, and has always found prompt and efficient relief from Perma. He says: "Up to the time I started using your Perma I could drink castor oil like water. It did no good. As for salts, they were of no use. Physicians of all kinds and classes were used, but we had to call on the fountain springs for help." Perma was able to correct this condition completely in Mr. Capers' case, and there is every reason to believe that it was the tonic qualities of Perma, added to the laxative qualities, that procured this very desirable result.

Workman's Asset.
A workman owes it to himself and his family to take care of himself.
His labor is his only asset in business.
When injured, he is for the time being a bankrupt. If killed, his family may be left destitute and his children deprived of an education and forced to seek employment before their maturity. This philosophy is found in a bulletin of the Chicago Bureau of Safety.

Saving The Middle Ages

A correspondent inquires:
What do doctors mean when they speak of "blood pressure", and of what importance is it to the patient? I have recently been examined for life insurance and should like to know more about this method of examination, which was new to me.

Answer:

Taking observations of blood pressure is becoming quite general among all physicians who keep fairly well abreast of the times. Combined with other symptoms and examinations, it may be very useful in arousing suspicion of danger of apoplexy, kidney disease, and other chronic disorders.

In disease of arteries, kidneys and the brain, blood pressure is increased.
In exhausting diseases, such as cancer and tuberculosis, blood pressure is usually abnormally low. Tobacco and alcohol, used excessively, are held to increase blood pressure; as is over-eating, particularly of the heavier articles of food.

Many fatalities among expectant mothers have been prevented by periodic examination of blood pressure combined with the other established careful physicians.

Physicians are frequently asked what normal blood pressure is, or the assumption that there is a definite scale, like the normal human body temperature of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit for example. Such is not the case. The blood pressure scale is comparable to the scale of body weight, in that there is no exact normal, and in that it is an abnormal increase or decrease that is significant.

The blood-pressure taking apparatus offers the doctor no substitute for an intelligent knowledge of his healing art, but it is a very valuable assistant or tool. Like an author's pen, it is useful or not according to the skill and judgment possessed by
"the man behind."

Inasmuch as it is the variations in blood pressure that are important intelligent patients are learning to visit their physicians, when they are well, for examinations which might be compared with the annual overhauling of an automobile. These patients ask their trusted physicians to observe and record their normal
"internal operations", so that abnormalities will be more readily recognized and interpreted in case of any disorder.

Active, middle-aged business men, especially those in sedentary occupations, cannot insure their lives health and financial interests more effectually and economically than by having attention given to the condition of their arteries.

A MAN will go a long way to get the Real Tobacco Chew. Once he learns its satisfying quality he just can't be contented with the old kind.

The longer he knows it the better he likes it and the more he talks about it to his friends.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and flavor. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

A study of 1,000 cases of cancer of the stomach reveals the fact that this disease claims more men than women as its victims and that it occurs most frequently between the ages of forty and sixty years. Ulcer of the stomach, on the other hand, appears most frequently between the ages of twenty and forty years. In over 90 per cent of the cases of cancer heredity seemed to play no part whatever.

HOW TO MANAGE HUSBANDS

By JOSEPH BERNHARD.

"When I write my book on 'How to Manage Husbands,'" serenely began the girl who likes to talk. Then the storm broke and she paused.

"You haven't a husband!" cried the bride.

"That's why I'm entirely competent to handle the subject!" retorted the girl who likes to talk.

"Why, you can't manage a canary, let alone a man!" scoffed her sister.

"I said 'husband,' not a mere 'man,'" sweetly explained the girl who likes to talk. "Any kind of man can be a man, but it takes a particular kind to be a husband. That's why so many women make mistakes—they don't appreciate the difference. They are exactly as foolish as the men who think any kind of fussy-ruffies girl has in her the makings of an ideal cook and housekeeper ready to pop forth like the cap in a Christmas cracker!"

"Why, it's no more natural for one of these snaky, fascinating, almond-eyed sirens than it is for every man to like to dig ditches just because that's a man's work! However, that isn't the point.

"Naturally, any woman with sense will keep her iron hand concealed within her glove, but no matter how much she coos away in public about what 'Jack says' and how 'Jack wants this' or 'Jack wants that,' she knows perfectly well that in reality she is ruling Jack with precession and dispatch, and if she has had time enough he is jumping through hoops and lying down and rolling over in haste at the crack of the whip.

"I don't believe in the crushed married women you read about! Any woman has it in her power to make things so awfully uncomfortable for a man at home that if she lets him bully her she deserves it as a reward for her own stupidity. Of course there are eccentric men who under circumstances like these will shrug their shoulders and go to the club or the theater and forget it, and then friend wife loses the trick, but the average man is lost outside his own home and you couldn't pry him away if you tried.

"He is helpless in the hands of the feminine enemy. He couldn't find his clean shirts to save his neck, and long, long ago he lost track of the hair from which emerge his clean handkerchiefs and socks. He has trustfully received them from the hands of his wife for so many moons that he'd have to hire a detective agency if he had to search for them himself. As for towels, all he has to do is stretch forth his hand and open the cupboard door in the bathroom, but he never does it. He cranes his neck over the stairs and shouts down reproachfully to his wife that there apparently is not a towel in the house, and he pathetically wishes, if it is not too much trouble, that she would ascend the stairs and find one. He hates to bother her, of course, but he really must have a towel.

"Then he stands more or less patiently while she opens the cupboard door and bumps him in the nose with it and gets a towel and stuffs it into his hand. Perhaps, however, she tarries to wipe the back of her husband's neck and ears for him, like one woman I know.

"Why, I heard about a man who got married because he had millions of loving relatives and it drove him crazy buying presents for them at holiday time, and he knew that if he had a wife she would have to buy the presents. Husbands shift all sorts of things upon their wives' shoulders besides shopping. They make them do all the dinner calls and the letter writing and the charity work and the battling with house bills, and the invitation list, and if a woman is wise she will submit to it. The secret is to make your husband so dependent on you that he'd be lost without you, and then he'll be so scared at the idea of losing you that he'll let you do any old thing you want to!"

"I don't see anything very bright about that," said the sister of the girl who likes to talk. "In plain words, make a slave of yourself in order to boss your husband. Who comes out ahead?"

"I am sure," said the bride, "I don't have to manage Jim. He is perfectly lovely to me and lets me have my own way in every—"

"Oh, my book isn't going to be written for cynics and little blind geese like you two," explained the girl who likes to talk. "It's for the women who realize that they're either got to manage their husbands or die in the attempt. And mostly," added the girl, with a sigh, "they do!"

"What?" asked the bride.

"Die," explained the girl who likes to talk, "still trying to learn!"

Resonance of Wood.

Since Mittelburger, the German musician, while sleeping under a roof of cedar shingles in Philadelphia, was entranced with the resonance produced by rain drops falling on the shingles, until the present time, wood has held an indisputable place in the manufacture of musical instruments, the Hardwood Record states. Mittelburger's first work under his theory that wood was more musical than metal was when he built a pipe organ—the first in America—with the pipes of southern white cedar, the same wood which had charmed his ear while he listened to the rain on the roof.
